Dear Sir or Madam, dear reader,

Limited natural resources and climate change are important drivers of the circular economy. Wavin has been an early adaptor in using recycle (internal and post-consumer/producer waste) in its products.

In order to continue to make a successful transition to a zero carbon and zero waste business, Wavin is embracing biobased technologies to further decrease the carbon footprint of our global business.

We commit ourselves to explicit targets on sustainability and it is our responsibility to do this in a credible and transparent way. For that reason, Wavin is adopting the ISCC principles and is committed to manage our biobased product portfolio only with a valid ISCC certificate.

This is our part of our commitment to build healthy and sustainable environments,

Sincerely,

Maarten Roef
